ABOUT US

Countries around the world face a common challenge of meeting sustainability goals. India can play a pivotal role by showcasing traditional methods of sustainable development.

SANKET (Sustainability through Ancient Knowledge & Emerging Technologies) aims to enlighten the participants on various aspects of sustainable living. Its unique feature will be to showcase how embracing the traditional Indian perspectives & modern technological innovations can help to effectively meet United Nations Sustainability Development Goals.

The conference brings together policymakers, academicians, industry professionals, researchers, corporates, students, and media personnel
